Vote on Legislation Affecting District Finds Hearty Support at Mass Meeting.

ASSOCIATION FORMED TO PRESS THE FIGHT

Speakers at New National Theater Gathering Urge Local Expression on Prohibition.

the capacity of the New National Theater to its utmost, the District of Colum bia Referendum Association, an organi zation pledged to work for legislation providing a referendum vote of the people on all matters affecting the general welfare of the citizens of the District, sprang into existence yesterday after-

A motion to form such an organiza ion was made after addresses had been delivered by a list of speakers, including some of the city's most prominent business men, professional men and clergymen on the right of citizens of the National Capital to vote on questions of vital interest to their welfare and more particularly the Sheppard prohibition bill now pending in Congress. When resolutions protesting to Congress against the denial of suffrage to citizens of the District of Columbia or the right to participate in a referendum and creating the District of Columbia Referendum Association were submitted for adoption, the vote was unanimous, not a single one of the gathering of approximately 2,000 persons having spoken in opposition to such a plan.

By the terms of the resolutions the officers of the citizens' committee which arranged for the mass meeting become the officers of the Referendum Association. They are William F. Gude, president, and Charles J. Columbus, secretary treasurer.

Mr. Gude, presided at the meeting who have nothing at stake in the Dis-

Congress of the United States by duly authorized agents or representatives in order that the Congress of the United States may at least have the benefit of the desires of all the people of the District of Columbia when it comes to the consideration of legislation affecting the general welfare, and that such legislation shall not be enacted until the said referendums have been had.

"It is the further sense of this meeting that the officers thereof, William F. Gude, chairman; R. N. Harper, vice chairman, and Charles J. Columbus, secretary-treasurer, shall present this petition to the Congress of the United States, and shall proceed with the formation of an organization to be known as the District of Columbia Referendum Association, which association shall assume the responsibility of securing legislation to realize our desire for a referendum on all matters affecting the general welfare of the citizens of the District of Columbia."

The injustice of depriving citizens of the District of Columbia the right of suffrage and representation in Congress which is enjoyed in some form or other by all other American citizens was the keynote of several addresses delivered at the meeting. In the initial address of the afternoon P. T. Moran, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, said that the citizens of the District have become so accustomed to having civic problems solved for them that many have become indolent about civic rights. indolent about civic rights.

May Have Blunted Sensibilities.

"The only excuse we can offer," said Mr. Moran," is that we are not respon sible for the condition of affairs and that long usage has blunted our sensibilities to the un-American governmen in the District.

"It seems that the apathy that held our manhood spellbound is passing and we are awakening to the fact that a hostile congressional committee can make the District a very undesirable place in which to own property, stocks or business interests. We have been made to feel that the civic theories and beliefs of the congressional committees on the District, which we had no voice n electing, should not be thrust upon Concerning the Sheppard bill Mr. Moran said:

"If Congress should pass this bill many people of the District will feel that we have not been given a square deal, whereas, if a referendum vote is taken and the people of Washington decide for themselves that the passage of the Sheppard bill will be beneficial to the city, then none can feel aggrieved."
"In my wildest dreams I never thought that in my eightleth year I would have to plead before an American audience for manhood," said Simon Wolf, at the outset of his remarks.

Mr. Wolf said the race question should not enter into consideration of the question of suffrage in the District.
"Some colored men are bad, so are some white men, but colored men have no mortgage on baldness.
"I am told that if the Sheppard bill is passed by Congress it will be a violation of law for me to offer to give ilquor to a friend who might visit me in my home. But I want to say that I know there is that manhood in the District which believes that in event those clothed in authority should enter our houses to enforce such an unjust provision, a pistol in our hands would be justified to check such intrusion on the home."

The speaker was greeted with loud applause when, in concluding his remarks, he said:
"It will not be long before we will be able to enjoy suffrage and have the not be supported by the people of the District and the law will become a farce, according to a statement made by former Gov. O'Neal.

"If the Sheppard bill becomes a law, the people of the District will be called upon to enforce it," he said. "You will be called upon to serve on grand and petit juries, before which cases growing out of arrests made in connection with the law will be brought.

"But remember that no jury is stronger than public sentiment, and if the bill is forced upon you without your consent, without first giving you an opportunity to say whether you want it or not, it will not receive the support of the people."

Gov. O'Neal said he believes the Supreme Court of the United States would find many portions of the proposed Sheppard law unconstitutional if it is ever brought to a test.

"The hill ignores some of the funda-

"The bill ignores some of the fundamentals of common law; it changes rules of evidence that have stood the tests of years. It actually changes the universally accepted theory that a man is innocent until proven guilty."

Gov. O'Neal came out strongly in opposition to the Anti-Saloon League of America and its practices. He told of the manner in which Senator Underwood has been condemned in his state by anti-saloonists because he introduced a bill providing for a referendum vote to settle the prohibition question in the District of Columbia. dent; Robert N. Harper, vice president, and Charles J. Columbus, secretary treasurer.

Mr. Gude presided at the meeting, and those who spoke were P. T. Moran, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce; Simon Wolf, former Gov. Emmet O'Neal of Alabama, Mgr. William T. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church; Rev. Dr. Abram Simon of the Washington Hebrew Congregation: R. P. Andrews, president of the Retail Merchants' Association; Prank J. Hogan, attosney and candidate for delegate to the republican national convention, and Edgar C. Snyder.

Resolutions introduced by Mr. Snyder and adopted by the meeting were as follows:

"When the question of suffrage in th District has been brought up at various times there has always been those mer who say 'let well enough alone,' but do not believe in the theory of 'let well enough alone' when 'well enough' is 'bad enough.' " said Rev. Dr. Simon.

"We have passed through the period of adolescence: we are no longer children here in the District, and I believe

"I want to vote on all questions affecting the welfare of the District, no matter what the issue may be. We should continually agitate the question of suffrage so as to show the men on the hill that we are in earnest."

Dr. Simon also came out strongly against the practices of certain prohibitionists.

Thinks Law Will Be Farce.

If the Sheppard bill is enacted into law without giving the citizens of the District a chance to register their stand either for or against it by means of a referendum vote, its enforcement will not be supported by the people of the District and the law will become a farce, according to a statement made by former Gov. O'Neal.

"If the Sheppard bill becomes a law, the people of the District will be called upon to serve on grand and petit juries, before which cases growing out of arrests made in connection with the law will be brought.

"But remember that no jury is stronger than public sentiment, and if the bill is forced upon you without your consent, without first giving you and opportunity to say whether you want it or not, it will not receive the support of the people."

"If it was right to amend the Consti-tution so as to guarantee liberty to the slaves of the country, why, then, is it not also right to amend it so as to ex-tend the liberty now enjoyed by liberated slaves to the citizens of the District of Columbia? If it was right to make the Columbia? If it was right to make the slave a citizen, why, then, is it not right that the people of the District should be made real American citizens?

Mr. Hogan came out strongly against those who have stated that in event a referendum vote on the prohibition question is taken in the District the votes of many people will be bought up by the liquor interests.

"The contention that the people of the District are purchasable I denounce as that of an infamous liar.

"Don't let us make this spasmodic movement," he said, in conclusion. "Let's press on and keep up the fight without intermission until we get suffrage in the District."

From Theodore G. Bilbo, Governor of Mississippi:

"The statement that prohibition has hurt business is not borne out by results at all. It has had no effect on business except to put money into legitimate channels of trade which was formerly diverted to the grog shop, which indirectly pauperized homes and added to our criminal list.

state is the amendment to the constitution prohibiting the traffic in intoxicating llquors. Kansas has had prohibition for a generation. Her people know the benefits of prohibition from actual experience and they are enthusiastically and overwhelmingly in favor of it."

From George A. Carlson, Governor of Colorado:
"Finally, upon the 1st of January, 1916, the city of Denver with a population of 255,000, the city of Pueblo with a population of 255,000, the city of Pueblo with a population of 55,000, together with the rest of the state, went "dry." What have been the results? It was said that if Denver went "dry" tourists would not come there and conventions would be failures."

A meeting designed to protest against a referendum in the District of Columbia on the question of prohibition was held yesterday afternoon at Poll's Theater, at which Andrew Wilson, president of the Anti-Saloon League, presided.

Edward S. Brashear, one of the speakers, denied that the meeting was organized as a protest against the meeting held at the National Theater in favor of a referendum on the question the question of the guestion and the only way to regulate anarchy to is to crush it out." He urged the people of the District to join in the fight for prohibition, not only for their own sakes, but for the sake of the capital itself, which, he said, should be an example to the rest of the country. "We shall not be satisfied until the National Capital of our nation is a clean city." he concluded. Rev. Mr. Chambers said, in part: "Nineteen states of the country have gone dry, and I think the District should be as good, because we are supposed to set the example for the rest of the country." He then attacked the proposed referendum on the question in the District, declaring that if the people of the District were to be allowed to vote on all questions he would be less opposed to it.
